Demonstrating solutions for measuring parts and enhancing GD&T knowledge in the medical industry

Looking for ways to stay ahead or need a competitive edge?

Medical devices feature complex geometries and pristine shapes that are more challenging to make than square parts. In this session, Mark Foster from Applied Geometrics, explains how communicating engineering specifications ensures everyone understands the process.

You'll also see demonstrations of the latest ZEISS technologies led by industry experts who work with your measurement applications every day.

Event Address:

Puerto Rico Convention Center
Meeting Room 202
100 Convention Blvd
San Juan, Puerto Rico 00907

Attendees will receive a certificate of attendance and be entered for a chance to win a Bose SoundLink portable speaker!
